World Book Day

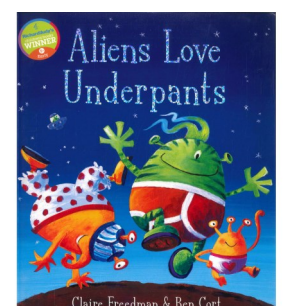

Thank you for all your support on World Book Day, the children looked AMAZING and we had a fun day with a picnic on the moon, in the morning and a World Book Day party, in the afternoon.

Well done to Tyler Wise who won the best costume award.

What are we learning about next?

Next week, leading up to Science Week we will be continuing our space theme by concentrating our learning around the story of Alien's in Underpants. We will be talking about the beginning, middle and end of the story and retelling the story together. We will be looking at the under-pants and learning to describe and make different patterns. We will also be investigating magnets.

A thought for this today was good.

today was fun.
tomorrow is another one

Ideas for Home Learning

You can help your child by looking at their clothes (and underpants!) each day and talking about the colours that they are wearing and the patterns they can see, using words like stripes, spots, zigzag, hearts, crosses, flowers thin stripes, wide stripes.

Look around and hunt the patterns, where else can you find a pattern?

Has your child been talking about space and the moon at home? You could fill in a WOW moment slip and tell us all about it! Don't forget WOW moment slips are also available in the Nursery cloakroom.

WOW! I just need to tell you that.....

Wow!
